Motor Police

(International News Service)
KINGSTON, Pa. Dec. 20.—Fears were expressed today that pretty 20-year-old Margaret Martin, missing from her home since Saturday, has been abducted by a white slave ring.

State motor police announced they were questioning a suspect, said to be a 23-year-old resident of nearby Wilkes-Barre, but refused to reveal his name. He has not been formally arrested, they said, and has not yet been linked to the girl's disappearance.

Search Roadhouses
County police searched all roadhouses within a 15-mile area of the girl's home. Major William A. Clark, district head of the Pennsylvania Motor Police in charge of the search, expressed the belief that the girl "is not very far away." He admitted, however, that that was only a "belief" and that he had no actual clues as to her whereabouts.

Miss Martin, a business school graduate, left her home Saturday to meet a stranger who offered her a job on a nearby corner. She telephoned her parents a short time later to say that she would be home "within a few minutes" with her prospective employer. That was the last heard of her.

No Ransom Case
Her parents are of modest circumstances and the theory that the girl may have been abducted for ransom was discounted by police authorities. Major Clark said he was convinced the girl did not go away of her own accord.

Police officials revealed that the suspect being questioned had set up

PA NEW OBSERVES

In making valuations on business properties assessors usually do it by the foot front rule, taking into consideration the size of the building. Generally they assess both sides of a street in the same proportion. A new thought in the way of assessments comes from Milwaukee, Wis. There the Tax Commission has had 150 WPA employees counting the number of persons who visit leading stores. Some amazing differences have been found, both as to the patronage of business houses, and the side of the street on which they are located. The tax commission thinks this ought to be taken into consideration in making assessments. There is considerable merit in this contention, but there are many factors to be taken into account, such as advertising to draw crowds.

Christmas cards are beginning to be delivered by the mail carrier, stacks and stacks of them. And you're hoping that you'll get yours early, so if you get one from somebody you missed, or a new one comes in on your list, you can hurry and fix it up. Lots of people just sign their names and seal 'em up. Others write some homespun poetry of their own. Once you've accumulated a good sized mailing list it's about as hard to drop a name as it is to get rid of a bad cold.

In addition to the many big problems confronting our governor-elect is that of patronage. It is generally agreed that this is a destructive political force unless it is managed with infinite care and wisdom. Judge

Worst Cold Wave Of Years Sweeps Europe

As many as 30 deaths were reported throughout the British Isles, where the temperature averaged 23 above zero and colder weather was anticipated. PARIS, Dec. 20.—Criticism of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for his acceptance of a Nazi medal of honor today brought from a close associate of the famous flier a spirited defense of his "100 per cent Americanism."

The criticism was voiced a few days ago in the United States by Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes, who in a speech took issue with Lindbergh and Henry Ford for accepting decorations from Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

Taken By Surprise
The defense offered was that Colonel Lindbergh was completely surprised when at conclusion of an official banquet in Berlin, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering presented him with the medal.

"Slim was sitting quietly, listening to the speeches, when Goering suddenly turned and presented him with a small red box," Colonel Lindbergh's associate said.

"Upon opening it, Slim discovered the box contained a decoration from Hitler."

"Taken entirely by surprise, he smiled sheepishly, made a brief speech of acceptance and then sat down."

Rain Keeps Pope Pius Indoors

(International News Service)
ROME, Dec. 20.—Torrential rain kept Pope Pius XI indoors today and prevented him from attending a special mass at the Cathedral of St. John Lateran at which he was to have observed the beginning of the 50th year of his priesthood.

The pope originally had been scheduled to officiate at the ceremonies in connection with the inauguration of a new holy year of prayer and devotion.

Any fears that the aged pontiff is suffering ill effects following his period of exhaustion yesterday appeared groundless in the face of an announcement that he planned to grant twelve audiences at the Vatican this morning.

SEVERAL SPECIAL

White House Engagements

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—President Roosevelt has mapped a busy schedule for the new congress that convenes January 3.

So far, the executive has planned five messages to the congress, either specifically recommending legislation or suggesting for study proposals that if carried through would mean new laws.

First of all will be his opening message to congress, to be delivered during the first two or three days of the session. That alone will contain recommendations for congressional action in several fields.

Four Special Messages
In addition, white house aides and callers have either formally announced or indicated that there will be four more special messages, as follows:

1—A message transmitting the report of the joint management-labor committee appointed to draft a rehabilitation program of legislation for the railways, and recommending action of some sort by the congress.

2—A special national defense message, setting for the needs of the military establishment and recommending appropriations to meet them.

3—A message transmitting the report of the special advisory committee which has studied social security laws, and recommending comprehensive expansion of their coverage and a strengthening of the general provisions of the law.

4—A message transmitting the report of the inter-departmental committee to study health and welfare needs, and recommending a national program for improvement of the nation's health. Miss Josephine Roche, former assistant secretary of the treasury, who heads this committee, indicated that this would propose an appropriation of at least $50,000,000 to handle this problem. Presumably the vital national is (Continued On Page Nineteen)

Senator Heyburn Will Vote With G. O. P. In Senate

(International News Service)
MEDI, Pa. Dec. 20.—State Senator Heyburn, elected on a coalition ticket in 1936 and listed as a Democrat, today announced he would vote with the Republicans "in all measures benefiting the commonwealth" and would support Governor-elect Arthur H. James' program to attract industries to Pennsylvania.

It was immediately pointed out that with Heyburn voting with the Republicans, the balance of power in the upper house of the General Assembly would be tied at 25 Democrats and 25 Republicans each.

The presiding officer of the senate then would hold the deciding vote when ties exist.

Should, however, State Senator Samuel W. Salus, Republican, win his fight to keep Democratic State Senator-elect Herbert Levin of Philadelphia, from his seat, the Republicans would have a voting majority of a single ballot in the upper chamber.

Unable To Identify Broken Plane Bits

HONOLULU, T. H. Dec. 20.—Efforts to identify broken fragments of an airplane found beaten into the rocks of Kaena Point, 35 miles from Honolulu, so far have been unsuccessful, naval authorities reported today.

It has been thought the wreckage might be from one of the three planes which vanished during the Dole cup race from San Francisco in 1927 or that of Capt. T. P. Ulm's ship which made a forced landing near Hawaii in 1934 on a similar flight and was never heard from again.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Slugged by a disgruntled former WPA worker, now jobless, Mayor Fiorella H. La Guardia today grappled with his attacker and held him until the enraged man was subdued.

La Guardia appeared to have suffered only a bruise, reddened cheek and a "mouse" high on his cheekbone which gave promise of developing into a full-fledged black eye.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Mayor Fiorella H. La Guardia today fought off with his bare hands an unidentified man who leaped at him on the steps of city hall and grappled with the pudgy chief magistrate.

La Guardia swung out wildly as they closed, and in a moment both La Guardia and his attacker were rolling around on the stone steps of city hall.

A score of persons, curious onlookers gathered to see the mayor enter his office, ran up and hauled the mayor's attacker to his feet. There they held him while La Guardia, panting and breathless, regained his own feet.

It was not immediately established whether the mayor had suffered other than minor injuries. Nor was it established whether his attacker, who gave the name of James F. Hagen, a resident of the Bronx, had been injured by the rescuing mob before police, in return, rescued him.

Roundhouse In Oil City Burns

(International News Service)
OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 20.—Fire caused by defective wiring today completely destroyed the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's 50-year-old roundhouse here, a frame structure, doing damage estimated at $50,000.

Six locomotives were housed in the building at the time and were badly damaged by the flames. The total value of the six engines was placed at $1,000,000 but it was believed the iron horses would not be a total loss.

Company officials announced defective wiring was responsible for the fire, which defied firemen for three hours before it was brought under control. The fire was discovered at 8:30 this morning and by 11 o'clock, only the warped remains of the locomotives and twisted steel rails marked the spot where the roundhouse once stood.

It's fun to get gifts and to give them as well. It's fun to send cards here and there, its fun to buy presents for family and friends with every odd dime you can spare. But Christmas my friends isn't Christmas at all unless there's a couple of likes who look for some toys, like rattons and dolls and snare drums and shiny new bikes. Who count every minute till Santa Claus comes and muss up the house with their jnn, without them why Christmas would be just a day that was over before it began. But with youngsters around its exciting I've found, as they plan for the holiday date, and they tear up the place as they hide their small gifts, the weather u bright, thirty-eight.

Turner To Be Named As Speaker

G. O. P. Members In Agreement

Woodside Is To Be Floor Leader At Coming Legislative Session

PARTY MEMBERS HAVE CONFERENCE

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Dec. 20.—Republican members of the state house of representatives today were agreed on Rep. Ellwood J. Turner of Delaware county speaker and Rep. Robert E. Woodside of Dauphin county for floor leader.

The two were unanimously endorsed for the positions at a Hershey gathering and their election will be a mere formality when the legislature convenes January 3 as the Republicans control the house 129-79.

Republican senators were to meet today at Hershey to discuss organization of the new senate and the appointment of committee members.

The election of two Democratic senators is being contested in the courts and the Republicans were therefore hopeful they would command a majority when the senate convened despite the nominal 26-24 Democratic predominance.

To Create Five Committees
The Republican house members-elect, elected together by Republican State Chairman James P. Torrance, mapped plans to create five new standing committees, one of them a committee on repeal bills. This was taken as an indication that the incoming administration of Gov.-Elect Arthur H. James looked forward to the repeal and revision of certain legislation passed by the Democratic early administration.

A prediction by Rep. E. Kent Kane of McKean County that the committee would have "plenty of work to do during the 1939 session" strengthened this belief.

The caucus, attended by all but one of the 129 Republican house members authorized Turner to name committees for patronage purposes, committee assignments, house rules and seating arrangements. In addition to the creation of five new standing committees, the consolidation of three others was agreed upon. The GOP members also voted to recess the house after organizing until January 16, the day preceding the inauguration of Governor-Elect James.

The caucus failed to take action on the chief clerkship of the house, a post paying $7500 annually, and no action was taken on the election of a parliamentarian or the Republican choice for director of the legislative reference bureau.

Their selection was left to the slate committee to be appointed by Turner following his election as speaker, along with 100 or more jobs falling to the jurisdiction of the house. Turner as speaker will also select the chairmen and vice-chairmen of standing committees with the remaining members to be selected by the committee on committees.

Before adjourning the Republican house members agreed to meet again at Harrisburg Monday night, January 2, the day preceding the opening of the 1939 session.

CHAMBERLAIN IS GIVEN APPROVAL FOR HIS POLICIES

red lights of criticism at Chamberlain, even charging that he was not telling the truth.

Defends Policy
Chamberlain was forced to defend his foreign policy from every angle against the taunts of his opponents and even declared:

"I am still awaiting a sign from those who speak for the German people that they share this desire (for peace) and are prepared to make a contribution to peace which would help them as much as it would help us."

Closing the debate for the government, Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared the four-power Munich pact, remains an instrument of peace. He said Chamberlain persisted in trying to preserve peace when everyone else became resigned in despair to war.

"The general verdict of the world," said Sir John, "is that Chamberlain saved the world at Munich."

Corrects Treaty Mistake
He stated that in transferring the Sudetenland to Germany, "we were correcting only one of the mistakes of the peace treaties."

The vote of confidence gave Chamberlain what amounted to a parliamentary "blank check" to carry to Rome next month for his talks with Premier Mussolini. He promised, however, that he would offer II Duce no British territory and said he does not expect to come home with a new Anglo-Italian agreement.

Chamberlain made it clear that he proposes to stick to his appeasement policy—and at the same time to continue Britain's rearmament drive until permanent appeasement is achieved.

"The usual defense policy," he declared, "is the only alternate to war."

During the cross-examination, Chamberlain was told by a laborite at one point to "tell the truth about it." At another, he personally shouted at the Laborites: "Why don't you exercise self-control? When he finally sat down, David Lloyd George, war-time Prime Minister declared:

"The Dictators are treating the Premiers of England and France with contempt—it is frankly felt here that (Chamberlain) is no match for these astute, crafty, ruthless and unscrupulous dictators."

James should not be bothered with partisan or personal problems at this time, yet it is necessary that he select the members of his official family. The hordes of office seekers who will be besieging Harrisburg should not attempt the bun's rush.

How would you like to know where you were and what you did every day during the past year? Well, you may if you have kept a diary, but how many people who start the new year by keeping a diary ever finish it? It looks easy enough. All you have to do is to write a few lines every day, but the vast majority of people who start to keep a diary soon find that they have missed a day or two. You fill in from your recollections, but pretty soon you have missed more days and then you begin to wonder, what's the use, and stop altogether. Anybody who can keep a diary a whole year deserves a leather medal.

Santa Claus is a lot more generous than he was fifty or sixty years ago, according to an old timer.

"When I was a boy," he says, "we used to hang our stockings to the mantel piece, being careful to get them on each side of the fireplace, so old Santa would have no trouble getting down the chimney. If we got a little candy, an orange and a few doughnuts or cookies, we thought Santa was a mighty fine fellow. The average child of today would sure think Santa Claus a miser for such a handout."

Here's something for the history lesson. On December 5th, 1844, the first two boats, "Queen of the West" a passenger packet, and the R. S. Reed, loaded with coal, passed through New Castle on their way from Pittsburgh to Erie through the Erie canal. The canal flourished until the Erie and Pittsburgh railroad was completed, when a downward movement began which finally resulted in its purchase by the railroad company in 1870. It was operated until the following year when it was abandoned. Several of the old canal boats remained here and were occupied as living quarters for a number of years.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, this correspondent learned, plan to move soon from their isolated home on the Brittany coast to a Paris apartment. All mail is being held for them here and a nurse has already been engaged for their sons. Arrangements have been made for official protection, but the address of their new home is a closely guarded secret.

In the course of the foregoing interview, Colonel Lindbergh's associate took occasion to reply to the statement issued by a group of leading Soviet aviators bitterly criticizing the flier for his alleged belittling of Russian air prowess.

"The colonel merely gave his personal opinion of the Russian air force," he said. "He had no intention of precipitating an international controversy."

Three girls who went to work for him related their experiences to police, strengthening the belief the man may have been an agent for a white slave ring. The girls reported they were engaged for typing, but each one gave up the job on the first day of work when the man tried to induce them to accept positions as models.

May Release Girl
With reports that G-men had entered the case and with neighbors holding themselves in readiness to institute a search of the entire neighborhood, police officials held some hope that Miss Martin's abductors would become frightened by the furor created and would release the girl unharmed.

As the fourth day of the girl's disappearance passed without a definite clue to her whereabouts Pennsylvania state police enlisted the aid of police authorities in neighboring states. A description of the girl was released over the state teletype system.

Hundreds of neighbors visited the Martin home meanwhile to express their sympathy with the bereaved parents.

assailant. The mayor was rushed to his private office for examination while "Hagen" was hauled off to headquarters.

Several hundred persons gathered in city hall park when the mayor's car swung into the driveway. A relief demonstration had been in progress just before the mayor's arrival.

Whether the mayor's attacker was a participant in the demonstration was not learned.

As his car slowed to a stop, the mayor jumped out with customary briskness and started climbing the steps to the entrance of city hall.

Behind him, striding determinedly, came "Hagen," unnoticed by the crowd. Suddenly, the man ran a few steps, leaped at La Guardia, and began swinging his fists wildly.

La Guardia was caught unprepared. Nevertheless, he swung around immediately, sought to ward off the rain of blows, and was exchanging blow for blow when the yelling crowd of rescuers intervened.

An immediate offshoot of detectives, initial questioning of "Hagen" was whether he had any knowledge of a death threat, signed with a swastika, recently received by the mayor.

Shelley refused to reveal whether he had made any attempt to contact H. H. Temple, chief highway engineer dismissed along with Griffith by Governor Earle. Temple, now living in Kentucky, is outside the grand jury's jurisdiction.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY CONSIDERS COSTER SWINDLE

Kesson & Robbins drug firm for $1,000,000. Musica launched a financial endeavor that exceeds fiction.

Before he was unmasked and committed suicide he allegedly used the drug concern as a shield for shadowy dealings in bootlegging and transportation of munitions to foreign nations.

Bizarre developments continued to tumble over each other as a three-fold investigation—Federal state and municipal—was pushed. From Boston came word that two business men, their names thus far withheld by Federal Agents, has served as "Coster's" representatives in a plan to sell $8,000,000 worth of rifles, ammunition and bombing planes to Mexico.

Plan Came To Naught
The plan, which came to naught when the Mexican government declined participation, contemplated resale of the instruments of war by Mexico to a foreign power, for use either in the Spanish civil war or the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Panama also was named as having been contacted. The Boston consul for Honduras, in denying he or his government has been approached, said that if any attempt was made to sell the weapons to Honduras, "it is certain that it was German or Italian money making the purchase, and the purpose would plainly be an attempt to obtain commercial domination of Central America."

Three brothers, all of whom under assumed names were associated either directly or indirectly with Philip and the drug firm, are confronted with federal and state charges.

Charge $4,000,000 Taken
District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey charged the Musica quartet had taken nearly $4,000,000 in cash from McKesson & Robbins, a firm with listed assets of $87,000,000, but $18,000,000 of these cannot be found. When his investigation is completed, Dewey indicated thefts from the drug concern might go as high as $18,259,375.

These disclosures came when a New York County Grand Jury returned indictments charging grand larceny and forgery against Arthur Musica, better known as "George Vernard," George Musica, who as "George Dietrich" was assistant treasurer and assistant vice-president of McKesson & Robbins, and Robert Musica, who as "Robert Dietrich" worked for the firm purchased by Philip in 1926, a "John Doe" and a "Richard Roe."

DON'TS FOR A MERRY CHRISTMAS

A MERRY CHRISTMAS to you and yours! And remember
—it can't be merry unless it's safe.

Fire is the great hazard of the holiday season. It has turned many a glad celebration into a horrible tragedy; for
the victims of holiday fires are usually children.

So—here are some don'ts for the holidays that will pay
you tremendous dividends in the coin of happiness and safety:

Don't use candles on your Christmas tree—the tree itself is highly inflammable and it, together with tinsel decorations placed near flame, may cause a holocaust in your home. Electric light sets are inexpensive, safe and satisfactory.

Don't permit children dressed in flimsy cloth or paper holiday costumes to be in a room with open flame of any kind. Fatal burns can be suffered in an incredibly brief period of time.

Don't give children gifts that require the use of explosive chemicals, fire, steam or other hazardous elements.

Don't allow a mess of discarded Christmas package wrappings to accumulate. A carelessly disposed match or cigarette may cause them to burst into a fire that will swiftly get out of control.

Dry Christmas trees present a major hazard—dispose of yours as soon as the holidays are over.

And—last but not least—don't take a chance of any kind.
Be constantly alert. Have your fun safely.

FOR CYCLING SAFETY

Pupils of a Chicago high school have introduced a novel application of the motor vehicle inspection idea. They periodically submit their bicycles for tests of brakes, lights, tires and other parts. Defects must be remedied in order to gain official approval.

Now this may seem, on first thought, like a silly kind of adolescent imitation. But the scheme attains real seriousness of purpose when a glance is taken at a recent report of the National Safety Council to the effect that there were 700 deaths and 35,000 cycling accidents in the United States during the past year.

It is no doubt the case that control of a bicycle is more easily maintained when the vehicle is in good running order. And this leads to the conclusion that the Chicago high school inspection arrangement reflects considerable common sense.

PLANNING RECOVERY?

It is noteworthy that a great deal of the time consumed by the senate committee engaged in considering various plans for the speeding of recovery has been devoted to such schemes as profit-sharing, employee stock ownership, incentive taxation, patent procedure and annual wage scales.

Are these the roads to improved business conditions? Can American industry thus be spurred to new heights of productivity?

One doubts it, and for the very good reason that excessive governmental spending and high taxes continue to hamper and impede business at every turn.

If the senate committee really wanted to stimulate industry and open the way to a sustained upward trend, it would endeavor to map out a practicable program of budget balancing at the centre of government.

So long as the nation keeps spending its way into bankruptcy, just so long will capital remain in hiding for fear of what is likely to happen when bureaucracy's stack of cards caves in.

A sophisticated husband isn't fooled by dressed-up charmers. He knows they look much like his wife at 8 a. m.

It's no proof of breeding to be nice to social leaders and those who can hurt you. How do you speak to telephone operators?

For those who have wondered who ate the first oyster, oysters now come in tablet form.

"The only earthly judge of right or wrong," says Hitler, "is success." That's what the Kaiser thought, too, but look at him now.

What's Right With America?

by Paul Mallon, News correspondent.

It seems to me the things that are right about the United States are the important things, the funda-mentals, the natural, simple things,
like the land and its people, their collective riches and their physical strength. The things that are wrong
with it are the superficial things,
the human, individual failings of group leadership and group following, frequently unthinking and often self-seeking, unable to cope with their own mistakes in government,
finance, human relationships and economics.

It is only reiteration of what everyone knows to say that the land
is rich beyond that of any other nation in the world; it has natural fertility, minerals, lumber, all these things in abundance beyond anything developed in the history of the world. As everyone knows, the people are energetic beyond most races, educated and physically healthful. By a combination of these natural and physical characteristics, we have
—even in our period of depressions
—developed and maintained, for instance, the best automobile, the best airplane, the best radio, the best factories and farms, the highest wages, possibly the best skilled mechanical labor, certainly better homes with greater comforts and conveniences. As a recent result of the productivity of mind, body and soil, we have continued to accumulate even in a period of extreme economic depression, more than one-

half the monetary gold in the world,
in excess of thirteen billion dollars
worth.
If this wealth is capable of disintegration, the only way you would expect it to be done would be by further human failure of leadership
and group action, beyond anything
we now think possible. But it could be done. The comforts which our inventive genius have brought us, for instance, might eventually make us
a weak race physically, if we are not careful to maintain our physical endowments. For another instance, our reverence for modernistic trends
might possibly undermine and destroy our ethical endowments. Again in the careless pursuit of new ideals
in government, we might lose the old ones which have proven so productive.

Our dangers, therefore, it seems to me, are the dangers of success and I do not believe these dangers can be important as long as the leaders and the people are aware that the dangers exist and possess a sufficient desire to avoid them.
All in all, no other nation has more important things right about it today than the United States.

LAUDS RESTRAINT TEACHING

Among the thousands of readers of this column in the United States and Canada who write me are those who toll with their hands as well as those who work chiefly with their brains.

As you know, for years I have been pretty much alone among the writers and lecturers in the United States in pleading for more restraint of the average child in his early years at home. I have even maintained that next to the decline in religion, the tendency in our country to let young children do about as they please is probably the leading single contributor to our juvenile delinquency and crime. For years I have advocated return of the good old-fashioned spanking to train the child early the meaning of the word NO, as the alphabet of safety and citizenship.

You can see that I have been greatly heartened by the letter printed below. It is from a British neighbor, Dr. G. Elmore Reaman of Toronto, Canada. Checking on my record, I learn that he has his doctorate from Cornell University.
He is the Toronto representative of the psychological corporation of which Dr. Henry Ling is director, and he also is past president of the International Council for Exceptional Children. He has written several books and writes a weekly column for a Toronto paper.

Frequently Sees it
"My Dear Dr. Myers," he writes,
"in connection with my lecturing before teachers' and parents' conventions in the United States and in Canada, I frequently come across your column.

"Knowing your scientific training
and published researches, I am glad to see you interpreting psychology
in the language of the everyday parent and teacher. For too long psychology has been associated with the laboratory or with used outside
it was couched in terms not understandable to the average person.

"Your point of view greatly appeals to me, especially your insistence on the need for adequate restraints for the child in his early years. You seem to be the only psychologist in the states who has courage enough to warn parents
against the mania for self-expression which prevails there and which has also invaded Canada.

"You may be interested to know that your books are very popular in Toronto, and you are frequently quoted as the outstanding authority
in the United States on child guidance. It seems to me that most of the other child guidance specialists are rapidly adopting your point of view, showing that for years they have been giving some unsound advice.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

COPPER

The world has passed through the Age of Stone, the Age of Copper,
the Age of Iron and all that, but there is not much accurate history concerning the Stone Age. There is of the Copper Age.

The earliest use of copper runs back—so it is said—at least nearly seven thousand years to the ancient Egyptians and Chaldeans. These people were said to be just emerging from the Stone Age. Through all the centuries from that time, man found many uses for copper, but never until the Age of Electricity has the metal been used in any great quantity.

The discovery of electricity has so changed the life of Americans: so changed the standards of living that it is no wonder that the youngsters of today refer with scorn to the "Horse and Buggy Age," when the family light was either a tallow candle or a kerosene lamp. But the development of great electrical machines has only been made possible
because of the great copper mines
open and worked in those United States. Perhaps the discovery of these American copper deposits has hastened the development of electrical forces; perhaps, it was the discovery of electricity that induced the ever active American mind to look for copper.

Just now there is a tremendous abundance of copper and copper stocks are not moving as rapidly as the owners of the copper mines
would wish. However regrettable as it may be to the world in general great quantities of copper are demanded
by Nations at war or preparing to go to war and the price of copper
is more or less of a barometer of international affairs.

Reader's Question Answered
Dear Miss Markel—Please outline
the details of the processional at a home wedding.—H. B.

Answer—After the ushers (if any)
have seated the guests, they should go upstairs where the bride party
waits to start the processional.
At the sound of the wedding march
the ushers, walking two by two,
come down the stairs; next come
the bridesmaids (two by two); then
the maid-of-honor (alone); last,
the bride on the right arm of her father.
The clergyman, the bridegroom
and the best man then enter together from a door, preferably, near the end of the room where the ceremony will take place. The bridegroom and the best man should wait
at the improvised altar for the bride
to come in.

Eden Gets Education On Visit
Housing Administration Benefits
Makes Big Hit In Capitol Circles

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 20.—
Anthony Eden got a good bit of education in American reporters' and careersmen's ways while he was in this country. He had an excellent professor at it in the person of "Ty"
Krum of the Federal Housing Administration's publicity staff. Incidentally Krum got a fine line of housing advertising out of the Eden
visit. He knew very well that Britain has a housing program of its own on the griddle and surmised
Anthony would be interested in what we're doing in the same direction.
Accordingly, even before the latter
left sailed for this side of the Atlantic Ty cabled and made a date with him, to give him a once over at our activities.

As soon, then, as ex-Foreign Minister Eden had arrived and disposed of his speech before the National Manufacturers' Association,
Krum was on hand with Administrator Strauss to show him the sights of New York slum elimination.

They had him all to themselves
for about two hours. That is, they had him all to themselves except for a sizable army of reporters and news photographers, and they wanted these, to accompany them;
that was the essential part of the publicity stunt.

HE WAS INTERESTED

Eden was interested all right. He also was very sociably inclined. He was somewhat at a loss, however,
English "pressmen," as they call them, are not as aggressive as their Yankee brethren. Anthony wasn't exactly sure how to behave when manhandled by our journalists.
"What'll I do?" he queried rather helplessly. "Make a speech to the boys," Krum advised him. So he made a little speech, explaining how essential good housing is to democracy. It was a hit.

But the photographers? "How'll
I satisfy them?" he puzzled. "Pick up one of these little slum kids and talk to him," Krum said. The administrator's idea was the adoption.
"Kids? What's a kid?" Oh, yes, I understand you," And he did it.
Numerous good pictures!

Altogether Anthony was what the English call a "ripping success" as a visitor.

He drew the biggest crowd on record at his National Press Club luncheon. The club has had presidential guests who didn't draw as well as he did. It has had transatlantic flyers who didn't block traffic as he did, arriving and leaving.

Eden somehow is a tremendously
likeable Briton. His visiting countrymen generally are a trifle superior.
He's as democratic as an old shoe,
as the saying is.

It's a pity that his Press Club
speech was off the record. Still, it will soak in gradually.

Oh, the English can learn the American newspaper psychology.

THE DECIES WEDDING

Years ago, when I was a news correspondent in London, Lord De-cies married Vivien Gould, of the railroad Goulds, in New York. It was an international affair and his lordship, while in Gotham, got a lot of our newspaper training. Then he and his bride set up housekeeping
in Slough, a London suburb. Presently Lady Decies fell ill. It was reported that she had appendicitis. If so, I knew that the United States,
with that recent wedding in mind,
would want the dope on it speedily.
But how to get it? You can't question an English peer too informally.
I decided to try a telegram; at least that would be delivered. Not that I expected an answer. What I hadn't counted on was Lord Decies' American training. Within an hour I got a phone call: "Don't," said his lordship, "cable that story. We're not certain that their ladyship HAS appendicitis. We don't want to scare her friends. If it proves that she has it, I promise to tell you. Of course I don't believe him, but there was nothing else I could do, so I agreed.

A few days later a "court" was held at Buckingham Palace. I glanced at the list of presentees, to see if there were any Americans.
There WAS one—Lady Decies. "Oh,
well," I thought, "after all, evidently she didn't have appendicitis."
At that instant the phone rang.
"This is Lord Decies," said his morning Lady Decies was operated

Take First Step For Proposed New Liquor Building

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 20.—The first steps in the planned construction by the state of a million dollar liquor control board building were taken today with the publication of advertisements calling for bids on preliminary construction work.
Members of the Liquor Control Board were said to have been assured by Republican State Chairman James F. Torrance that the incoming administration would approve the project.
The PWA, it was reported, would assume half of the cost, with the remainder to be provided out of a fund previously set aside by the liquor board for that purpose.

WHALE HIDE MAKES GOOD THICK LEATHER

(International News Service)
CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 20.—Reports of Japanese efforts to popularize the use of whale meat and leather as a war economy measure prompted a Cincinnati University leather expert to declare that he saw no reason why Japan could not be successful in tanning whale leather for general use.
"Whale hide is a thick, dense covering which lends itself to the manufacture of a dense, tough leather," Dr. Fred O'Flaherty said at the university where he is director of the Institute for Scientific Research Laboratory.
"Such hides have been tanned in America on special occasions when

FAIRFIELD, Conn., Dec. 20.—Fairfield police, today, planned to search again the mansion of the late Philip Musica in the hope of finding evidence that may link the super-felon with still another crime, that of murder.

WPA-BUILDS OHIO FOOTBALL STADIUMS

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20.—The WPA has constructed 76 modern football stadiums in Ohio, according to state officials.
Biggest of the stadiums is the one built at the University of Cincinnati which will seat 25,000 persons. If all the 76 stadiums were filled at one time the aggregate attendance would be 2,317,664, or an average of 2,918. Average cost of the stadiums and playing fields has been $44,955. The total outlay amounted to $3,419,955.

ing, the bulk of them appear to like it. While her syndicated article is not free from propaganda, she has been singularly free from criticism. Partly this is because she is a woman; partly because she is gracious, friendly and earnest; partly because of the natural good will of the people toward the "First Lady." She is much more popular than the President because she has incurred relatively so little ill will.

ALTOGETHER, it is a record without precedent or parallel. It is not only remarkable that she should have done these things but it is remarkable she can continue them without tiring herself or boring the public. However, this business of becoming a director of the insurance firm is not clear. Exactly how being on the board will afford James "protection" he could not give himself a hard to see. More than before it identifies the firm with the White House. It emphasizes that while Jimmie may be on the Pacific Coast as a movie magnate he is still in the insurance business. No one wants to criticize Mrs. Roosevelt, but that thought is bound to occur.

New Record Is Made For Dramatic Scene

By MILTON HARKER
(Copyright, 1938)
(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20.—Setting a record for Hollywood, Merle Oberon and Laurence Olivier have just completed a dramatic scene lasting three minutes and 15 seconds. It's the scene which will prove the turning point in the dramatic story of Samuel Goldwyn's "Wuthering Heights."

The usual long scene in the movies rarely exceeds a minute and a half. That's due partly because the public is likely to get bored at too much of the same thing at the same time and partly because actors and actresses are subject to the usual human failings. The camera is almost always the most critical audience to which you can play. It is merciless and unrelenting, picking out flaws which would escape notice on the stage. It magnifies any gesture it is verifying at first, even to the most seasoned stage players.

When scenes get overlong actors and actresses blow up. They garble lines. They bawl under lights pushed around for special effects. As a rule the only time scenes run longer than a minute and a half are in the spectacles, where they are filming storms and fires and what-not, such as Goldwyn's "Hurricane" and Twentieth Century-Fox's "In Old Chicago" and "Suez." Even these scenes rarely run more than two minutes.

Love scenes generally are the shortest of all, and kisses may last no more than a second on the screen. The industry's committee on morals is only incidental to this situation. What stops a screen kiss in the middle, so to speak, is the tendency of women to laugh if they run too long—a laugh promoted by embarrassment. The audience seems to feel it has been caught peeping. As a matter of record, the most torrid kiss ever recorded on the screen required 40 seconds for the whole scene. The late Rudolph Valentino was the man.

Sherman Todd, Goldwyn's film editor, points out that today a kiss is merely a token, a punctuation mark in the screen story. It's not the rip, rarin' sportin' thing it was in the early days of the screen. Today those kind of kisses would just amuse audiences genuinely, not from embarrassment.

Increased Postal Service Provided For Grove City

GROVE CITY, Dec. 20.—Successful in her long fight for increased mailing facilities in Grove City, Postmaster Olive McCoy announces the inauguration of an additional noon trip daily to New Castle by the Star Route. In addition, the evening trip to New Castle will carry parcel post packages, besides the regular first class mail.

Previously all parcel post was dispatched by train to Greenville, from where the east and west-bound mail is sent to Pittsburgh. The new local system will prevent congestion at the local office. With a number of extra employees on the staff, Postmaster McCoy reports that the office is keeping well ahead of the rush, with receipts certain to set a new high record.

Troop To Get New Flood Medal Soon

Troop K Members Await Issue Of Medal For Service In 1936

Above is shown a likeness of the new medal issued by the Pennsylvania Department of Military Affairs in recognition of service by Pennsylvania National Guard troops in rescue work during the 1936 flood.

Some of the units entitled to receive these medals have already gotten them, but the consignment for members of Troop K, have not as yet arrived, but is expected daily.

Those still with the troop will have them issued by the troop officers, but those who are not now connected with the Pennsylvania National Guard, will have to apply direct to the adjutant general at Harrisburg.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Excessively fat children are not very fortunate. They cannot play like other children.

Proper treatment should be begun before the tenth year. Otherwise, the overweight continues throughout life.

Fat people generally do not live long or vigorous lives.

An abnormally fat child eats too much.

Parents are prone to deny this. But it nevertheless is the common rule.

Dietary adjustment is vital if reduction is desired.

There is medication for certain rare cases.

The fat child needs special care. Such obesity may be overcome—and should be.

Court Decides To Hear Arguments

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The supreme court Monday decided to hear arguments on the appeal of the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission in a rate case involving the much-debated original cost theory of valuation.

The appeal was directly from an injunction order issued by a federal court in Philadelphia, which found that temporary rates fixed for the Edison Light and Power Company were confiscatory.

Argument before the high court was set for February 6.

HOPE LOVERS WILL RETURN TO MEDIA

(International News Service)
MEDIA, Pa., Dec. 20.—The new marriage law which sounded the death knell to quick marriages in Elkton, Md., may restore to Media some of the business it lost following Pennsylvania's three-day-marriage decree.

This community lost its prestige as one of the busiest marriage marts in the east when a state law was passed requiring a three-day wait between application and marriage.

Once, an average of 80 weddings were performed here each week, with most of the couples coming from Philadelphia, New Jersey and New York.

Pageant Planned For Ward Church Thursday Night

"The Holy Grail" Will Be Presented In Mahoning Methodist Church

Presentation of "The Holy Grail," in the form of a Christmas pageant will take place Thursday night in the auditorium of the Mahoning Methodist church. The pageant will be presented by the high school department of the church Sunday school.

The story of the pageant traces the search by King Arthur and his knights for the Holy Grail. The cast will be assisted by the church choir. Those in the pageant follow: King Arthur—Jack Wilson; Angels—Eleanor Blaisdell, June Wilson; Mary—Martha Mauck; Joseph—James Johnson; Shepherds—John Dripps, Donald Blaisdell; Wise Men—Albert Moss, David Blaisdell, Allan McClure; Laurels—Allen Bretzel; Bedevils—Jack Knepps; Garb—William Howard; Tristram—William Johnson; Percival—Oliver Kerr; Modred—Samuel Davy; Galahad—John McCann; Damsels—Harriet Leighty, Grace King, Myrtle Rohrer, Jessie Jane Gilbert.

Girl Reserves Christmas Party

Members of the Girl Reserves society of the Mahoning Junior high school, held their annual Christmas party in the school. Following a short business meeting, the following program was given:

Devotional story, "The First Christmas Tree"—Shirley Waskin; Bedevils—Jack Knepps; Christmas Carols—Evelyn DeVivo; Games by the group closed the program.

The girls adjourned to the library in the school where the tables were decorated with tall red candles, pine and colored popcorn balls.

After an exchange of gifts, the girls went out and sang carols. Special guests were Miss Nannie Mitchell, Miss Stewart, Miss Jane Kyle, Miss Frances Hyde and Miss Jane Young.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Motorists who fail to move away from traffic lights immediately after they have turned green create an avoidable traffic hazard. This is especially true at this time of the year when everyone is out Christmas shopping.

An extra clerk has begun to work at the Mahoning Post Office to handle the extra mail passing through the office due to the Christmas season. Due to the efficiency of the staff at the ward office, only one clerk extra will be needed, it is believed.

As gifts of two Seventh Ward residents, the local library branch has received a number of new magazines. These have been added to the reading room at the branch and may be used by the patrons.

There are a number of automobiles that are quite old running about the ward, and sometimes it makes one wonder just how inspection tags are secured for the old machines.

Traffic through the Seventh Ward has taken a big spurt this week according to Police Officer Frank Reynolds. People coming to and from their homes to do Christmas shopping, are now out in full force, it would seem.

COPS NOT SAFE AT HOCKEY GAMES

(International News Service)
AKRON, O., Dec. 20.—This game of hockey isn't supposed to be a pink-tea party, but Deputy Inspector Gilbert Mosely, of the Akron police department, thought that at least the spectators were safe.

But he was wrong. Sitting in the fifth row of the Akron Arena at the Cleveland-Hershey clash (The only word that can be used to describe a hockey game) Mosely was enjoying the brawl hugely—until the puck came sailing from the ice and struck the detective on the forehead. Six stitches were required to close the gash.

By HARRISON CARROLL
(Copyright, 1938)
HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20.—There will be no trip to Hollywood for 12-year-old Oscar Hahn, whose mother died recently in Ohio's electric chair.

But George Raft, who was so moved by the boy's tragic experience that he invited him to pay a visit to California, was planning today to assume the role of long distance Santa Claus.

"I'm sorry the boy couldn't come," said Raft. "But I want to do something for a kid who has gotten such a tough break."

"The only thing I know is to send him a Christmas check to buy anything he wants."

Raft's invitation was declined for Oscar by a Cincinnati firm of attorneys, Boisinger and Hoodin.

Resolutions In Behalf Of Jews

Local Clergy Adopts Resolutions
Deploping Persecutions
In Germany

TREATMENT CALLED 'BRUTAL, INHUMAN'

Members of the New Castle Ministerial Association, in session Monday at the First Presbyterian church, adopted the following resolutions drafted and recommended by Rev. Dr. F. S. Neigh, C. B. Wingerd and C. H. Heaton, committee, and R. B. Withers, secretary:

Whereas, since the death of Ernst von Rath in Paris on November 9, 1938, at the hands of the misguided Polish Jew, Herschel Grynszpan, a seventeen year-old boy, the atrocities committed against the 700,000 innocent Jews under German domination have been so brutal and so inhuman as to shock the whole civilized world, and the decrees of Field Marshal Hermann Goering are so extreme as to constitute an outrage on all humanity; and

Whereas the aforesaid atrocities and outrages have created a world situation which demands social action in behalf of a great host of Jewish refugees; therefore be it

Resolved that we, the Ministerial Association of New Castle, Pa., call upon the people of our churches deeply to deplore the sufferings which have been visited upon the Jewish people due to racial prejudice and not to crime, and that we condemn all movements that are inspired by the spirit of anti-Semitism or race prejudice as being inconsistent with humane and good government; and be it further

Resolved that we express the hope that the American government may, through its good offices, in behalf of the innocent sufferers, in the instance under consideration, not only ameliorate their present condition but seek to prevent a recurrence of such persecutions in the future; and be it further

Resolved that we call upon the Jewish people of our community to recognize in the present plight of their persecuted brethren in hand of permissive Providence—and to consider those inspired scriptures which offer to the Jewish race large hopes and rich blessings on the condition of their loyalty to the convenants made with their fathers, and that we urge people of all races always to sustain the principle of fair play and human justice as suggested in the teachings of the Prince of Peace; and be it finally

Resolved that we request the New Castle News to publish these resolutions.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 20.—Economically, the holiday season for thousands on outgoing Capitol Hill payrolles is a cheerless one. They know that after January 17, for the vast majority of their number, it's just a matter of time until the axe falls severing them from the state payroll. The incoming Republican administration, facing the responsibility of meeting an economy pledge, is not expected to daily placing its own workers in state jobs. . . . and if they really effort towards economy the elimination of any positions will make the contest much stronger for the remaining posts. . . . In other words, every job will have to "count". . . . The G. O. P. must strengthen its shrews of party organization, and patronage is the first tonic.

Add sad last words: "My job's safe. . . . This is heard particularly in the ranks of persons working under "civil service" in the division of unemployment compensation and employment service, the department of public assistance and the liquor control board. . . . Just how "safe" they are from the political guillotine is pretty questionable. In some past instances, the simple device for firing a "protected" political employee was to change the title of classification for the job in question. When this had been done, the old position was no longer existent, and the favored applicant was given the same duties and salary under a slightly altered title.

The sudden flurry of Democratic permanent appointments in unemployment compensation will probably continue through the New Year. . . . many appointees have been provisional jobholders whose status has not been finally decided pending rating of their examination test papers. . . . after permanent appointments are made the job-holder is on probation for nine months, during that time things may happen.

One factor favoring incumbents on the unemployment compensation payroll is the degree of supervisory control exercised over the set-up by the social security board at Washington. . . . fund expenditures examinations, et cetera, all have been checked carefully by the federal administrative authorities. . . . employment totals have been largely determined through the board's budgetary control of the state system's expenditures. . . . the political changes will be closely watched.

Street talk in downtown Harrisburg is that of just four years ago. . . . namely, the holiday business is below par here because of the impending change in administration. . . . the jobholders soon will be job-seeking, and they're saving instead of spending at the normal Christmas rate. . . . the effect is naturally noticeable on capital city retail trade, observers point out.

AROUND CITY HALL

This is the season of the year when police authorities take nothing for granted and when plans for theft prevention are mapped out as near as possible toward perfection. It is the period when shoppers' cash fill the coffers of merchants and because of this, police are extraordinarily cautious of strangers. During the past week or more police have scanned crowds for suspicious-looking strangers and each night try business house doors give as much protection as possible. There has been a few robberies recently but New Castle has been quite fortunate, no large burglaries having been reported.

Approximately one dozen persons requested exonerations of fines for violating parking regulations when Mayor Charles E. McGrath held his traffic court last Friday. Another session was scheduled for this afternoon. The last traffic court before Christmas will be held Friday afternoon.

Police Chief's News Letter of recent issue quotes Superintendent Donald P. Silver of the Indiana State police, as follows: "In recent years state and federal police agencies have arisen to supplement the works of local organizations and to shoulder part of the vital responsibilities for law and order which, by their very nature, transcend local boundaries and facilities. In the public interest it has been imperative that these agencies make harmonious adjustments with one another. It would be a mistake for any great police agency, metropolitan, state, national, or international, to feel that its own importance transcends in majesty or sincerity that of lesser workers in the same field of their home communities. We must never lose sight of the substantial contributions made toward the safety and welfare of the citizenry of the world by the man on the beat, by the town marshal, or by the constable, and the humble agents of the law who do their work day by day with little besides the satisfaction of seeing justice done in their bailiwick. We must coordinate and reinforce each other's facilities and man-power to preclude any leaks in our dike of protection. As long as criminally minded men and ignorant, careless persons threaten peace and security, it would be little more than a crime in itself for us to take heed of any consideration than our mutual duty to the people whom we serve."

Parents say they can't do a thing with high school "Blackshirts" who think themselves Communists. Have you tried letting them provide their own rations?

Medical Leader Is Speaker At Rotary

Dr. Palmer, Pittsburgh, Discusses 'Socialized Medicine'

Branding Pennsylvania's proposed 'health insurance law' and other state and national legislative proposals as "Old World copies which supporters, under the guise of liberalism, are endeavoring to put into practice here," Dr. C. L. Palmer, president of the Allegheny County Medical society and state medical leader, informed the Rotary club Monday of the facts and fancies underlying the sociologic philosophy which would introduce European sickness-service plans into our commonwealth.

Dr. Palmer, introduced by Dr. C. F. McDowell, member of Rotary, spoke in his capacity as chairman of the committee on public health legislation of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania. He also represented the Lawrence County Medical society as he spoke.

The speaker, whose topic was "Socialized Medicine," pointed out that organized medicine today stands ready to supervise and develop, in co-operation with proper authorities of the state, medical-help programs.

But he said the profession is firmly opposed—mainly for the political control it would bring—to direct government administration of such a program.

The Rotarians sang Christmas carols under the leadership of James W. Moorehead yesterday.

Toys, donated by the members, were distributed during the afternoon by a committee headed by Alec Samuels, chairman of the boys' work committee, and E. J. King, chairman of the transportation committee. Children in the two hospitals, Henry home and several other local institutions were beneficiaries.

Famous Couple On Honeymoon

Former Gloria Baker And Henry J. Topping Are
Wed In Florida

(International News Service)
PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 20.—
Leaving a trail of wilted orchids and champagne corks behind them the former Gloria Baker and Henry J.
Topping began a quiet honeymoon
on the Bahama Islands today.

The glamorous New York society
girl and "Bob" Topping were married in a small but far from simple ceremony yesterday that united two famous fortunes.

The 18-year-old Mrs. Topping who made her bow to society at one of the most lavish parties of last season, is heiress to about $10,000,000
from the estate of her grandfather,
the late Capt. Isaac Emerson, patent medicine manufacturer (Bromo-Seltzer).

Young Topping, who is 24, will receive a $9,000,000 share in the estate of his grandfather, Daniel Gray
Reid, tinplate king, when he is 27.

The ceremony was performed at the estate of Gloria's mother, Mrs.
Margaret Emerson, before thirty select guests. Gloria carried a bridal bouquet of fifty white orchids and the couple took their vows before
an altar of the same rare bloom.

They left for Cat Bay and a whirl
at big game fishing after a luncheon reception. Topping revealed they intended to continue the wedding

Girl Scout Holiday Plans Are Underway

Girls Plan To Sing Carols On Saturday Afternoon

Girl Scouts all over the country
will say Merry Christmas with programs to brighten the season for the old and young, sick and well in thousands of communities. To this end, in the midst of the hurry and bustle of last minute preparations
for the coming holiday, the Girl Scouts of New Castle, organized into chains in different parts of the city, plan to pause long enough to participate in that gracious custom of Christmas caroling, that singing
of hymns of joy which dates back to the 15th century.

One of these groups, under the direction of Mrs. James A. Rugh, sang at the New Castle Dry Goods
company last night, and on Saturday afternoon, December 24, from 4
to 6 the city troops will traverse Washington street in a truck singing carols, giving the shoppers a heartening feeling of well being, which may well mark the beginning of a tradition for singing carols each Christmas Eve in the downtown sections of the city.

The Mahoningtown and Walmo
troops are caroling in their own
sections, and during this week other
troops are caroling in their own
churches or immediate neighborhoods.

ANY HEREDITARY WEAKNESSES

While we are on the subject of heredity, it might be a good idea to point out that people whose family history shows a weakness in some direction, such as a tendency toward contracting some particular disease, can do a great deal to save himself from it.

Take, for instance, a person whose family has numbered a good many diabetics. He can't change that tendency, but he can change his habits. These people have a type of cell in their pancreas that can only do so much work. If more work than they can handle is thrown on them, they just give up. If you are of this type, if a number of your family have suffered from diabetes, then be careful. Check your tendency towards overweight; avoid too much sugar and starch. Try to find work that doesn't involve too much strain and worry.

There are a lot of beliefs about the inheritance of disease that are nothing more than superstitions. For instance, there is a common belief that a taste for whiskey is inherited. That isn't so, or at least I have never had it proven to me. But just the same, if, say, my father and my grandfather had died from alcoholism, I'd be pretty careful about any drinking I did.

Certain eye weakness are inherited; if that tendency is in the family, don't take a job involving a great deal of eyestrain. Deafness is certain forms is handed down from parents to children. There are people known as bleeders, who almost died of hemorrhage every time they cut themselves. This tendency is often inherited—handed down from mother to son.

It is on account of these inherited tendencies that the marriage of persons who are first cousins is discouraged. For if you marry your first cousin, you are quite apt to find all the family weaknesses intensified in your children. In fact, the good tendencies as well as the bad ones are accentuated in the offspring of such a union, so if you do marry your cousin, you know what to expect in your children.

There is an idea, too, that cancer is hereditary. It hasn't been proven, though, and in my opinion it isn't true. But the tendency to have cancer may be inherited. To such people, I say beware of such predisposing causes as chronic irritations.

Members of families in which cancer is prevalent should be careful of certain skin conditions. Moles often cause trouble and should be removed. Prolonged trouble with stomach and bowels, might lead to cancer.

but with modern methods of treatment this is unnecessary. Don't forget to see your family doctor.

When there is any hereditary reason to fear cancer, persons should beware of chronic sores that don't heal, and with growing lumps.

When Marie, the smallest of the Quints was just a few months old, we treated her for a tumor on her hip with radium. Dr. Edmund Kelly with his father, Howard, of John Hopkins University, came up here all the way from Baltimore to look after her, for we were afraid to leave the tumor there too long for fear something more serious would develop. No subsequent treatments were necessary and now she is well.

Remember the hereditary isn't all-important. You can change your mode of living in such a way as to minimize hereditary weaknesses.

Blonde Cigaret Girl Is Paroled

Norma Pancoast, 22, About To Become Mother Gets Freedom From Jail

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 20.—Blonde Norma Pancoast, the 22-year-old night club cigarette girl whose trial created a storm of controversy here, was granted a parole from the county jail Monday so she could receive proper care for her anticipated blessed event.

Miss Pancoast was sentenced last November 23 to a year in jail by Visiting Judge Harry James, of Bedford county, on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Dolores Clark, 22. It was Mrs. Clark who led police on a raid on Miss Pancoast's apartment where the cigarette girl and Mrs. Clark's husband were found without much clothing in a darkened room.

Man Is Freed
Mrs. Clark's husband, Kenneth, 23, was arrested with Miss Pancoast. He was found guilty on a morals charge but was not sentenced to prison. The judge's action in allowing the husband's liberty while sending Miss Pancoast, a prospective mother, to prison, aroused considerable discussion.

Miss Pancoast was granted a parole Monday after Assistant District Attorney Jacob Shugold joined her attorney in asking for mercy. Mrs. Clark also joined in the plea which was granted by Judge James and Judges Frank P. Patterson and John Kennedy.

Increased Cost Of Social Security System Attacked

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—W. D. Fuller, Philadelphia publisher and member of the Social Security Advisory Council, on Monday criticized the increased cost involved in extensions and changes of the social security system recommended by the council at Washington.

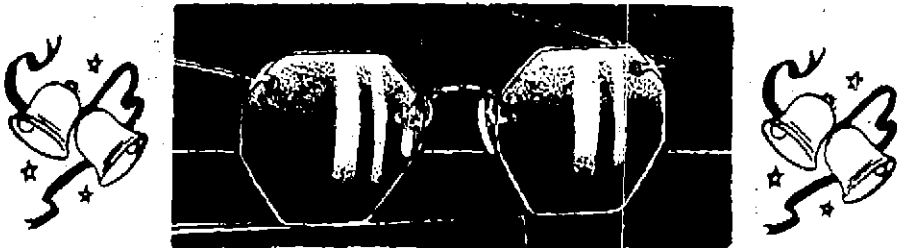

"I have no quarrel with changing benefits," declared Fuller, chairman of the Emergency Council of State Associations, "but I regard it as absolutely fundamental that such benefits be produced by changing around the schedule of benefits and not by increasing the cost."

Declaring employers were already heavily burdened with payroll taxes, Fuller warned that in the near future each dollar of wages might carry from 10 to 20 cents extra for the social services. He urged delay in collection of scheduled tax increases due Jan. 1, 1939, "because we are in the heart of a serious depression."

May Not Release Capone From Prison

Mental Condition Of Former Chicago Gang Lord Is Not Best At Present

Could Be Kept At Alcatraz
Until 1942, Has One Year
In Jail To Serve

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—The mental condition of Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, is such that he is considered "too dangerous" for release from federal prison, U. S. District Attorney William J. Campbell revealed Monday.

The notorious prohibition era gangster, reportedly now under treatment for paresis in Alcatraz prison, will not be given his freedom for at least two years, Campbell said following his return from a conference in Washington with Assistant Attorney General Brian McMahon and James V. Bennett, director of prisons for the department of justice.

Remains In Custody
At another conference in Washington next week, Capone's family will be given the choice of keeping the ex-gang leader in Alcatraz or having him transferred to either

Los Angeles or Springfield, Mo., in any case he would remain in federal custody.

Campbell said that facilities for the treatment of Capone were excellent in all three places.

It was within the government's power to hold Capone in federal custody until May 4, 1942, when he would have served his full 10-year term for federal income tax violation. This was because he has not yet been credited with his time off for good behavior, which would entitle his release next Jan. 19, Campbell said.

"Bennett has just returned from the coast where he conferred with Capone. The prisoner is rational most of the time, but has mental lapses. During these lapses he is a dangerous character, too dangerous to be released."

Causes No Trouble
"Capone has caused no trouble in prison," Campbell continued. "His physical condition is not at all good. His mental condition is improving under treatment, and it may be that in the next two years he will be ready for release. If not—"

Here Campbell broke off with a shrug.

As to the one-year term which Capone is scheduled to serve in the Cook county jail at the end of his federal prison term, Campbell explained that a compromise may be reached with the family whereby he would be given credit for this while undergoing federal treatment.

The county jail term was imposed for contempt of court.

Members of the gang chief's family—his brother, Ralph; his wife, May, and his aged mother—are now in correspondence with the government regarding payment of his $50,000 fine and about $7,000 in court costs.

ISSUED MARRIAGE LICENSE
A marriage license has been issued to Harry H. Burton, Jr., of Slippery Rock, R. D. 1, and Ruby L. Correll, of New Castle, in Butler.

"How does a criminal get a parole?" asks a reader, "when only his few friends desire it and everybody else opposes it?" Well, you see, his friends work at it.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Monkey business is on the upswing all over the world. Currently in the news is the story of the new colony for 500 monkeys on Santiago Island, near San Juan, Puerto Rico. The colonists brought 14,000 miles from the jungles of India, will have the island all to themselves, to settle their own problems of model housing and slum clearance without any red tape whatever. This is not an experiment in starting a new and possibly more edifying civilization than ours. It is a detail of the widening study of tropical medicine.

Possibly more interesting, but long overlooked, is the fact that we have our own jungle town with a population many times as big, right here in New York City. Take your machine and hack a trail to 215 Fulton street. There you will find the establishment of the Henry Trefflich Company, 40-year old animal importing firm which brings into New York 15,000 monkeys a year.

If you want to surprise your wife with a somewhat different Christmas present, you can pick a monkey large or small, playful or grave, light or dark to match her new fur coat. Or, if your taste runs that way, they'll wrap you up a 20 foot python, or any kind of strange goggle-eyed bird you ever dreamed of, from their huge stock of thousands of weird birds and beasts.

This bulletin comes a little late for Christmas shopping for elephants, as they do not carry them in stock. But they'll take your order as casually as if you were ordering a sandwich at the near-by beanery, and in two or three months you will get your elephant. That goes for tigers and leopards and all the larger creatures. Just now the store is filling a hurry-up order for a couple of large leopards from South America.

Parks, zoos, circuses and roadside carnivals are enlarging their animal collections. Gas and refreshment stands along the continental highway find that a furred or feathered entertainer is good business. Pitchmen report that animal acts are holding up well. But medical research accounts for much of the mounting demand for animals, particularly the monkeys.

This does not mean vivisection. There is a vast field of physiological inquiry and experiment in which the monkeys are ideal subjects, without suffering anything more than minor inconvenience. In fact, they seem to be enjoying themselves tremendously, as we know a lot more than we used to know about keeping jungle visitors healthy and happy.

Monkey ailments, clear down to housemaid's knee, are pretty much in the human compass. Medicine, particularly tropical medicine, has gleaned invaluable knowledge from monkey reaction to serums, from studies of their metabolisms of certain individuals, of diet and glands, bacteria and viruses.

Columbia University is making some of the most interesting studies of monkeys. Much of this research has to do with monkey behavior. Here, too, there is common ground between homo and simia, as many origins and inducements of our behavior reach back to the monkeys. For instance, the monkeys are much given to kidnapping. There was that

Baltimore case, a year or two ago of a monkey mother with triplets. She was a scientific marvel, until it was learned that she had stolen two of her babies.

In 1919, there was a war on the Rock of Gibraltar between the big monkey colony and the people of the settlement. Two monkeys strolled into a house and found it unoccupied except for a sleeping infant. One was a matron with a brace of youngsters of her own. She picked up the baby and was crooning to it and rocking it when the baby's grandmother appeared. She grappled with the monkey and was bitten on the wrist, and the intruders made off with the baby. They were assailed by passersby and dropped the baby. But that started the war with the monkeys and the settlers belting each other with rocks all over the place. It was ended by a telegram from the British Admiralty which said, "Stop that monkey business." Of course that shows the monkeys have a long way to go before they can hope to match the higher primates in intelligence, it is merely the crude material instinct, which makes them kidnappers. They haven't yet learned to make it a business.

Hallahan Given Release By Phils

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—Wild Bill Hallahan, veteran big league hurler, was dropped from the roster of the Phillies today. Reported to be one of the wealthiest players in the game, Hallahan greeted news of his unconditional release with a statement he'll probably take a world cruise before seeking another job.

A native of Binghamton, N. Y., wild Bill is now 34. He started with Syracuse in 1924, and in the fall of the same year came to the majors. He pitched for the St. Louis Cardinals during nine seasons, including 1931 when he won 19 and lost 9 and defeated the A's in two world series games.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

In refusing to play night baseball in 1939, the New York Yankees and the New York Giants have passed up $50,000, each, club officials admitted today. But, having declined to have anything to do with the electric light festival in their own parks, the two clubs had to be consistent and turn down bids from the night spots.

As a consequence, the Detroit Tigers, Yankees and Giants are lined up alone against 13 supporters of Mazda baseball.

Andy Kerr, Columbia coach, begs to differ with those who believe that professional football will supplant the college brand in the affection of grid fans. Kerr claims that college football has the spirit and color not to be found in professional football. He admits there is more scoring in professional football but that is because the rules are designated, help make scores. He claims professional football depends upon college football because it is from ex-collegians that the players are drawn.

Galapas, a 2 year old bay colt, sprinted to a two lengths victory in the inaugural handicap at Tropical Park, Fla., yesterday. Arthur Griffith, 52, president of the Tulsa baseball club, Texas league, died at his Los Angeles home yesterday. Third U. P. Tops Mahoning Team In League Game 39-27

First Christians Beat First Presbyterians, Epworth M. E. Upsets First M. E.

The Third U. P. and Mahoning M. E. game was the most torrid last night in the New Castle Church league at the "Y" floor. The game ended with the East Siders on top 39 to 27 in the final seconds of play. Hahn and Wilson shared the spotlight for the battle.

The Epworth M. E. team had a rather easy time in downing the First M. E. team 30 to 19, and the First Christians had a walkaway with the First Presbyterians.

A Little Mixup on the Race Track

A Johnny-on-the-spot cameraman snapped his shutter just as Danny Armbruster's midget racing car rolled over and tossed him into the path of another car. Armbruster and Dan McClusky, driver of No. 2, were leading the pack into the last lap of a race at Kansas City, Mo., when the accident occurred on a turn. Armbruster was taken to a hospital in critical condition. (Central Press)

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Eddie Nahas, local athlete, one of the main cogs on the Slippery Rock Teachers' quintet this season, was an interested spectator at the New Castle Booster-Ambridge tussel. Nahas is in perfect shape for the tough floor grind. The Rockets may appear here before the end of the season. . . . Close to 100 deer were bagged in Lawrence county during the season. At least 29 were illegal deer. Several district coaches are watching the work of at least two members of the New Castle Boosters. . . .

From here and there: . . . Around New York they're saying Lou Nova tosses his mitts about a la Gene Tunney fashion. A check-up shows that 400,000 athletes participated in the semi-pro branch of baseball during 1938. You are wrong if you think fishing isn't a big industry. From 1936-37 anglers in the United States bought some 6,801,561 licenses. It meant $9,309,949. John Catalano, a Chicago boxer, won 40 out of 50 bouts, then quit suddenly to study the Bible. Evelyn Yellowrobe is the archery captain of Mount Holyoke. She is a Sioux Indian girl. . . .

Bits of sport news. . . . Joe DiMaggio turned host during the gridiron season, entertaining the squads of Detroit University and Notre Dame in his fish house when said teams traveled to the coast. It cost New Brighton high $4,579.80 to operate football. The take in was $4,323.65. Fred Hutchinson, the Christian, presents the Tigers have purchased for followers of the Detroit team, two years ago participated in American Legion junior ski-trail, on the east slope of Whiteface Mountain, is two miles long with a vertical drop of 2,400 feet at one point.

Odds and ends. . . . New York and Philadelphia will offer followers of basketball 30 double-headers during the current season. Benny Osterbaan, Michigan's new floor pilot, was an All-American a few years ago, wearing a Wolverine uniform. During the recent major league shin-dig, an old-timer pulled a crack that won first prize. He said: "Pie Traynor would hang on to the Wanderers until he was buried with them." Tony Galento has a list of his kave victims on a board in his gymnasium. His last one reads—"pneumonia."

Wabash Bears Elect Officers For Year Of 1939

The annual election of officers of the Wabash Bears was held Sunday and Willie Domenick was elected to the presidency for the ensuing year. Serving as vice-president will be Alfonso Russo. The club is one of the finest athletic organizations in New Castle.

Other officers were elected as follows: Secretary, Anthony Piccola; financial secretary, Thomas Miron; treasurer, Louis Tomalio; trustees, Alfred Rainey, Louis Tomalio, Rocco Tomalio and Albert Conti. Sport managers named include: Baseball, Mike Masch; football, Albert Adamo; basketball, Alfonso Russo; Russo; softball, Alfonso "Skip" Russo.

Following the election of officers refreshments were served by Alfred and Albert Rainey. The officials then were called upon for talks. The founders of the Wabash Bears Club—Louis Domenick, Orlando Patchochi, Matt Miron, and Frank Zaccarillo all gave interesting talks, on the history of the organization.

SMITH MAY TAKE POST AT BOSTON

NEWTON, Mass., Dec. 20.—The Boston College football coaching situation remained muddled today as college officials and Maurice J. "Clipper" Smith denied they had conferred in Boston Sunday.

Smith, at present coach of the Villanova squad admitted he could "be tempted" to shift to the Eagles, if "the contract and terms were satisfactory."

Babe Ruth, apparently convinced no major league club wants him as a manager, is a candidate for a post as the broadcaster of games when New York clubs start "airing" them next year.

Miami High To Meet McKeesport

Trojans Are Not Under - Estimating Big Duke Eleven

U. S. C. Athletic Director Quick To Tear Into "Pantie"

(International News Service) PASADENA, Dec. 20.—University of South California officials do not think Duke football players have a "panic" rating.

They said so emphatically today when it became known that the Durham, N. C., gridiron warriors had received two pairs of lace-trimmed silk panties through the mail. Willis O. Hunter, U. S. C. athletic director, was the first Trojan official to tear into the pantie story. He declared, with emphasis that Southern California regards Duke as its strongest possible opponent.

Howard Jones, Trojan coach, said that insinuations that Duke is not strong enough simply makes it tougher for the Trojans. Jones gave his team "skull practice" yesterday on account of rainy weather, but said the boys were in fine physical shape.

Class B Teams Battle Tonight

VOLLEY BALL GAMES

Two volley ball games will be played at the "Y" this week in the league. Tonight the Washington and Stanford teams will tangle. Thursday the Southern California and California teams battle.

Here is one way to look at it... There are gloomy folk among us... and they are gloomy because they have no working philosophy of life. They should consider the "Polli" and be wise... You have two alternatives... either you are mobilized or you are not. If not, you have nothing to worry about. If you are, you have two alternatives... either you are in camp or at the front. If you are at camp you have nothing to worry about. If you are at front you have two alternatives... either you are in the reserves or you are in the firing line. Stock Market Turns In Dull

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The stock

market turned in a dull performance

today, with leaders a shade

higher on the average in extremely slow trading.

As in the preceding session, stocks

opened on a generally firm note,

but the advance was curbed later by a light influx of profit-taking. Price

movements were insignificant in the majority of cases.

Among leaders to chalk up fractional

gains were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem,

Chrysler, General Motors,

Case, Kennecott, Douglas Aircraft,

Boeing, American Can and N. Y.

Central. Santa Fe was up more than a point for a time.

Several representative shares were bought minus signs, included were

Washington Electric, Anaconda,

American Telephone, International

Harvester and Sears Roebuck.

Commodities were quiet, with grains and cotton a shade lower.

Miner staples were relatively steady.

The bond market showed no appreciable

change from previous closing levels.

Trappers Find Prices Lower

Are Much Lower Than Record Established During Winter Of 1936-37

By TOM R. BRISLIN
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Dec. 20.—Pennsylvania trappers are finding the "pickings" rather slim this year in comparison to the top prices paid for pelts during the 1936-37 season, the state game commission has revealed.

Prices paid for pelts, from muskrats (for which the kill has been heaviest) to wild cats, have dropped off from 25 to 50 per cent.

The Pennsylvania game law establishes fur dealers' permits which allow the holders to receive or to purchase and to resell raw furs for commercial purposes. A resident license costs $10 and a non-resident, $50.

Fur trapping in Pennsylvania in 1936-37 was better than a million and a half dollar business. For the season of 1937-38 it fell off to approximately $600,000.

CHEWTON

CHOIR AND PLAY REHEARSAL

The choir of the Chewton Christian church will meet for rehearsal in the church on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. The ladies in charge of the Christmas entertainment will meet for play rehearsal the same evening at 7:45 o'clock.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

Miss Dorothy Conner was a pleasing hostess on Friday evening, December 16, when she entertained members of Class No. 5 of the Chewton Christian Sunday School and their mothers at their annual Christmas party.

Chinese checkers and conversation were the diversions of the evening.

A pancake and sausage dinner was later pleasure when the mothers were seated at a large table decorated with the Yuletide motif. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Pearl Yoho, Mrs. Bernice Hennon, Mrs. Violet Tillie, Mrs. Edith Badger, Miss Ada Tillia and Miss Mildred Solsberg. During the evening Santa Claus made an appearance and presented each person present with a gift.

Plans were made for the next class meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Edith Badger.
